Kokoro

Modularità, libertà e accoglienza sono le fonti di ispirazione di Kokoro, il sistema di divani e tavoli, disegnato da Federica Biasi. Kokoro si compone delineando nuove spazialità all'interno di differenti ambienti, per diventare fulcro dell'ufficio contemporaneo, un luogo di scambi, o uno spazio di intimità.

Series

Modularity, freedom and welcome are the sources of inspiration of Kokoro, the system of sofas, and tables designed by Federica Biasi. Kokoro is composed creating new spaces within more extended areas in order to become the core of the contemporary office of relationships or a space of intimacy.

The concept

Kokoro significa “cuore” in giapponese, significa anche “essenza, giusto animo, fulcro” — Kokoro ha molti significati, così come l’omonimo sistema pensato da Federica Biasi per Manerba.

Kokoro means “heart” in Japanese, but also “essence, right soul, fulcrum” — Kokoro has many meanings, as the system named after it designed by Federica Biasi for Manerba.

Kokoro è un sistema modulabile di divani, divisori e tavoli. Un insieme pensato per dare una risposta ad ogni ambiente, che sia esso ufficio, spazio pubblico o di attesa, fino alla creazione di vere e proprie micro architetture (e box in box). Le sue forme sono state pensate al fine di creare un senso di intimità, accogliendo al loro interno le persone, al tempo stesso sono capaci di essere estremamente versatili nella loro composizione spaziale.

Kokoro is a modular system of sofas, dividers and tables. A set designed to furnish any space, be it office, public space or waiting, up to the creation of real micro architectures (and box in box). Its forms were designed to convey a sense of intimacy, welcoming people inside, at the same time able of being extremely versatile in their spatial composition.

Meet the Designer

Federica Biasi è una designer e art director milanese, riconosciuta a livello internazionale. Vive per un biennio in Olanda dove studia e comprende il design nordico ed i trend emergenti, concentrandosi sull’indagine estetica e la semplicità formale che hanno ispirato il suo stile personale. Nel 2015 rientra in Italia e fonda il suo studio a Milano. Attualmente collabora come consulente creativo con aziende di design puntando sulla ricerca e previsione dei trend internazionali: colori, materiali e finiture, con particolare attenzione al know-how di ogni azienda con cui collabora. Progetta prodotti di arredo per aziende del settore. Federica è una designer a 360°, lavora con aziende di tutto il mondo, la sua filosofia si basa su un approccio estetico pulito: niente è lasciato al caso, ogni dettaglio ha un obiettivo preciso sia che si tratti di un prodotto o di una direzione artistica. A Gennaio 2017 è stata nominata da Andrea Branzi, come talento emergente e premiata durante Maison&Objet 2017. I suoi lavori sono stati pubblicati sulle più importanti riviste nazionali ed internazionale.
